Fund Manager Comment

April was unfavorable for Fixed Income, with Global bonds falling by about 2.5% during the month. This was consequent to inflation and growth data reducing expectations over the number of Fed cuts. Further, the timing of the cuts was also mainly moved towards Q4.

The US 10-year treasury yield experienced a notable shift in April, rising from 4.20% to 4.68%. This movement was primarily driven by the market's anticipation of the Fed's actions in response to inflation and GDP data. The overall yield curve mirrored this trend, albeit with a reduced inversion of the 2-10 curve to c.36 bps from c. 42 bps. Bloomberg's data indicates a significant change in the number of expected rate cuts by December, now standing at 1.1 times compared to the initial projection of 7 at the start of the year.

During the month, Brent ended higher at c. USD 87.9 from c. USD 87.5. The increase came amid growing conflicts in the Middle East and the danger of escalation. However, regional spreads, although tight historically, have remained steady, indicating optimism over non-escalation. The regional IG and HY space remain favorable to their global counterparts and will continue attracting flows from yield-seeking investors.

QNB MENA Debt Fund, after being launched in 2017, has paid 13 coupons. We remain focused on taking advantage of the opportunistic trades apparent in the market. The fund manager has gradually increased the fund's duration to position the fund to an eventual steeper yield curve. Assets of the Fund are satisfactorily deployed as per the investment guidelines and also in line with the selected benchmark, which the fund intends to outperform in the longer run.
