Fund Manager Comment

Market environment

MENA equities, represented by the S&P Pan Arab Composite Large Midcap index shed 3.04% in May. Relative to global markets, Mena Equities underperformed both the MSCI World and EM indices by 2.86% and 2.00% respectively. Global equities consolidated previous month's gains as focus shifted to slowing economic growth against a background of a tight monetary policy. Inflation remains stick narrowing the options of global central banks to support economic growth. Commodity complex represented by the Bloomberg Commodity Index shed 5.20% as recession fears gripped the commodity markets. Crude oil shed 9.55% during the month. Key MENA markets were all in the red except Dubai closed up 1.49%.

Portfolio performance

The fund outperformed its benchmark during the month, attributed primarily by selection effect. Saudi Arabia and Qatar markets were the biggest contributors to relative performance while Morocco was the biggest drag to relative performance. . From a sectoral perspective, the biggest contributors to relative performance were Consumer Discretionary, Financials and Information Technology while Materials were the biggest drag to relative performance.

Outlook

Mena markets relative performance to global markets pulled back from intermediate high in mid-2022. We anticipate that the pullback will make a higher lower and reverse back to the upward trajectory established. As the global economy moves to the post covid period, we expect the demand for commodities to pick would favor earnings prospects for Mena markets. Valuations remain undemanding and we expect earnings growth at higher single digit.
