Fund Manager Comment

April was unfavorable for Fixed Income, with Global bonds falling by about 2.5% during the month. This was consequent to inflation and growth data reducing expectations over the number of Fed cuts. Further, the timing of the cuts was also mainly moved towards Q4.

The US 10-year treasury yield experienced a notable shift in April, rising from 4.20% to 4.68%. This movement was primarily driven by the market's anticipation of the Fed's actions in response to inflation and GDP data. The overall yield curve mirrored this trend, albeit with a reduced inversion of the 2-10 curve to c.36 bps from c. 42 bps. Bloomberg's data indicates a significant change in the number of expected rate cuts by December, now standing at 1.1 times compared to the initial projection of 7 at the start of the year.

During the month, Brent ended higher at c. USD 87.9 from c. USD 87.5. The increase came amid growing conflicts in the Middle East and the danger of escalation. However, regional spreads, although tight historically, have remained steady, indicating optimism over non-escalation. The regional IG and HY space remain favorable to their global counterparts and will continue attracting flows from yield-seeking investors.

QNB Global Sukuk Fund was launched in October 2018 and has distributed ten coupons. The fund manager continues to seek Sukuk Investments that would add value to the fund in the longer term. Also, we have been cautiously adding duration to the Fund without compromising the yield due to an inverted yield curve. Yet we remain lower than the benchmark duration and will monitor to position the Fund to benefit from the curve movement over the long run.
